

How to draw your incredible woman using the templates:

1. Find an image of the woman you would like to draw.

*(For this example I'll be drawing Edith Craig, who inspired this whole drawing project – image of her here: History | Pageant on Paper
Can you find the drawing of her on the pageant?)*

2. Choose a template that you think works best.

3. Place a piece of tracing paper over the template (if you don't have tracing paper, baking paper works too!)

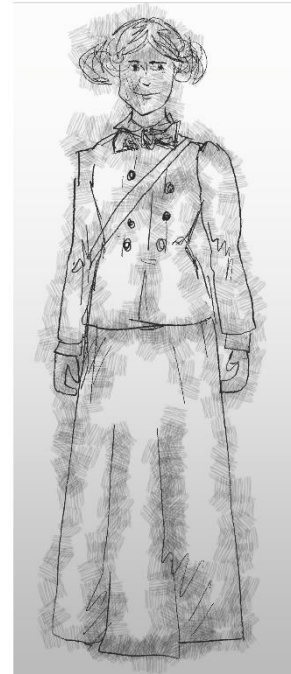

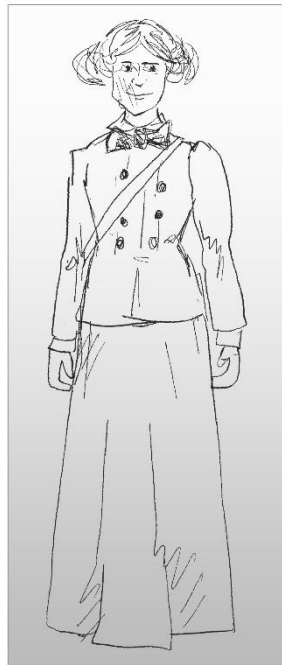

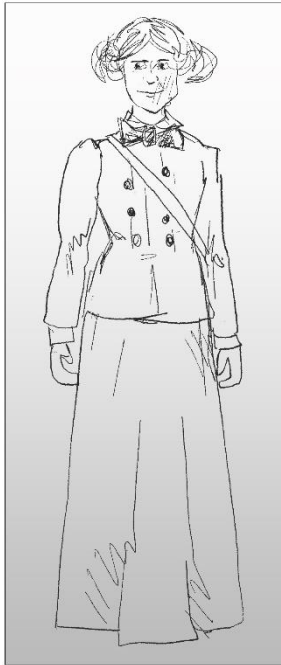

4. Using the picture you found, draw your woman over the template.

TIP: Don't worry about it looking just like the woman you have chosen, enjoy the details of hair style and clothes. If you can only find a picture of her face, then look up what clothing women wore in the time and place that they lived and create your own outfit for her!

Take a look at other drawings on the Pageant for ideas of how you can work in accessories and items that tell the story of your chosen woman!

5. When you have finished your drawing on the tracing paper, flip it over and use a pencil to cover all the lines.

6. Flip the tracing back over and secure it to your final piece of paper making sure the pencil scribbles are on the side against the paper. Using a pencil, pen, or stylus, go over your drawing again, pressing through the tracing paper nice and firmly. The scribbled pencil marks will transfer onto the paper, giving you your drawing – ready for more details to be added and to be painted or coloured!
